

Business Developer Internship

Hunchback Music is looking to reinforce its team with an internship as a Business Developer on our next projects. You will be part of the team for the duration of at least 6 months during your internship with the possibility of remaining part of the team afterwards.

About Hunchback Music

We are a music production and sound design studio for trailers, commercials, games and movies. Our focus is on creating carefully crafted content that resonates with the audience. It is our duty to dive into another world and capture that specific feeling to strengthen the visuals. We work with a vast team of creatives who are passionate about the story and strive towards the best results.

About The Role

As a Business Developer at Hunchback Music you will take on the venture for business acquisition and social accountancy. You're working in a team to develop new acquisition strategies, which you will then use to reach film and game studios around the globe. You will also maintain meaningful relationships with our partners, solidifying the presence of Hunchback Music in the entertainment industry.

Who You Are

- Knowledge and strong passion in the music and game entertainment industries
- Profound organizational and communication skills
- Fluent English speaker and writer
- Able to work effectively in team environments and autonomously
- Flexibility in workflow
- Proficient with Google Workspace
- You love Nolan films and dare to mention this in the interview (be warned, this will add at least 45 minutes to the interview)

What We Offer

- Opportunity to work on big entertainment productions
- Work/life balance carefully kept in check
- Work close to Amsterdam on location and work remotely at home
- Flat hierarchy
- Passionate team of co-workers
- Plenty of room to grow
- A supporting space to voice your ideas and ambitions
- Enough whiteboards to write on
